Bio:

Michelle has been a fan of music since the age of seven. From her parents, she became accustomed to classic soul artists such as Aretha Franklin, Dionne Warwick, and Earth Wind & Fire, and the like. She received her first pocket radio, and from there she loved to listen to soft rock classics, and became a big fan of The Beatles, Aerosmith, Queen, David Bowie, and Prince. Growing up around the Boston area in Massachusetts in the mid 70's, 80's, and 90's she developed a music style that crossed varying genres.

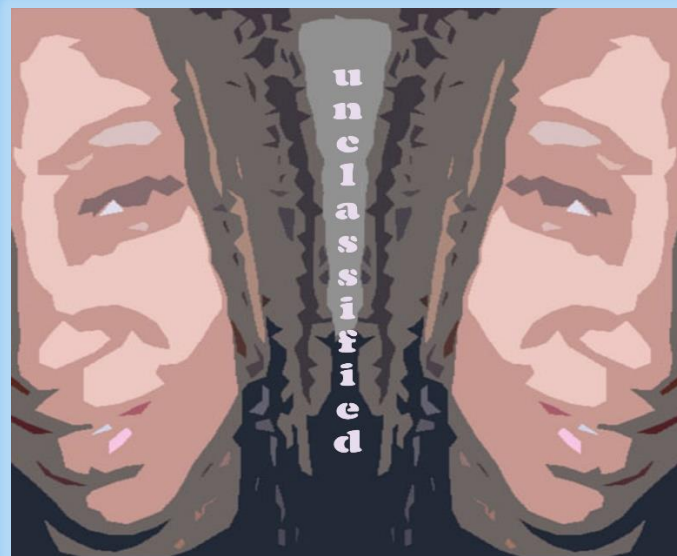

In the mid 90's Michelle met Boston's urban music producer Maurice Starr (New Edition, New Kids on the Block) and learned a few music production techniques in which inspired her current desire in producing music for herself and other people. Michelle desired to go to Berklee College of Music but being young and a bit naïve, she took advice from Starr and other local music producers that she could learn from them what she would have learned at Berklee. Today, Michelle regrets not following her first desire. However, she did not let that stop her passion to continue making music and singing.

Michelle's music has been featured on a few documentaries, DIRECTV's "Gone Until December" Documentary, local radio stations, and had performed around Boston.

Michelle has not made any claim to fame and that's never been her intent with her passion for music. She loves to inspire her listeners to look at the positives in life. Today, Michelle mature adult working full time educating elementary students, and on her part time she focuses on her own independent record label (Doveluv Records) development and music production company (LOH Productions) and continues to share her passion of music. Michelle does not let society's age bracket discourage her to stop using her style of music, perform music and produce music for others.

Michelle's music can be heard and purchased from all popular music streaming services like Amazon Music, Apple Music, Google Play, and the like. Visit her website at <http://www.michellehicksmusic.com>.
